LEADER'S POST SUICIDE CHECKLIST

Current as of 12 August 2022

NOTE TO AFFECTED LEADER:

Losing a unit member to death by suicide will have a significant impact on a unit. Before jumping right into taking action, it is important to pause and remember that you are not alone. Your Leadership, First Sergeant, and Installation Helping Agencies are available and willing to assist. Support services are available for you, your leadership team, and unit members.

Your role is critical in setting the tone for how the unit responds. The time period after a suicide death and the efforts to facilitate the healing of individuals, families, and units from the grief and distress of a suicide loss, as well the efforts to mitigate the negative aspects of exposure to suicide, is referred to as Postvention.

Postvention efforts are intended to provide everyone who is exposed to a loss by suicide with compassionate, immediate and long-term support. These efforts are vital to comprehensive suicide prevention efforts. Postvention includes providing individual and collective opportunities for healthy grieving.

The AFMC Leader's Post Suicide checklist is designed to assist you as a guide in the necessary steps that will need to be taken in response to a suicide. This checklist is intended to augment any local policies. It incorporates "lessons learned" from leaders who have experienced suicide deaths in their unit.

UNIT NOTIFICATION

Recognize information may spread quickly, so informing the unit in a timely manner is necessary. Timely and accurate information briefs can help dispel possible rumors. It is important to protect and respect the privacy of the deceased unit member and their loved ones during the death notification. Leaders are critical in setting the tone for how the unit responds to the suicide.

Note: If time allows, it is recommended to provide the initial notification to the decedent's immediate co-workers prior to informing the unit.

Prepare announcement to unit and co-workers.

- Consult with DMH Team Chief or on-call Mental Health provider to prepare announcement to unit and coworkers.
- Consult with Public Affairs regarding public statements about the suicide.
- Refer to the Public Affairs Guidance for Suicide Prevention (Note: Your local Violence Prevention Integrator (VPI) can provide you a copy).

Consider having DMH Team member present when you make initial announcement to work site with a balance of "need to know" and rumor control. Listed below are recommendations to follow:

- State it was a suicide or reported suicide.
- Avoid announcing specific details of the suicide.
- Announce location of suicide as having occurred either on-base or off-base.
- Do not mention method of suicide completion.
- Do not announce who found the body.
- Do not state whether or not a note was left.
- Do not make any statements as to why the member may have decided to take their life by suicide.
- Avoid glorifying/idealizing the deceased or conveying the suicide is different from any other death.
- Express sadness at the Air Force's loss and acknowledge the grief of the survivors.
- Emphasize that alternatives to suicide are readily available.
- Reinforce that support from Helping Agencies is available and encourage personnel to seek assistance when distressed.
- Express sadness that the Airman did not recognize that help was available.
- Encourage Wingmen to be attuned to those who may be grieving or having a difficult time following the suicide, especially those close to the deceased.
- Provide a brief reminder of warning signs of distress.

After the death announcement is made to the work center, follow up your comments in an e-mail provided to the unit.

- Restate the themes noted above.
- Include a listing of support available (i.e. Mental Health, Chaplain, Military Family Life Counselor, Employee Assistance Program, etc.).
- Sample e-mail notifications for unit members are available at:
<https://www.resilience.af.mil/postvention-tools/>

UNIT SUPPORT

The DMH Team can coordinate support which includes offering individual and group counseling or coordinating a grief/loss support group for unit members.

Refer grieving employees to available Installation Helping Agencies for support.

- For Military beneficiaries consider Mental Health, Chaplain, Military & Family Readiness, and Military One Source (1-800-342-9647).
- For civilians employees consider Employee Assistance Program (EAP) (1-866-580-9078) or Military & Family Readiness.
- If non-beneficiaries (i.e., extended familymembers, fiancé or boy/girlfriends) are struggling and asking for help, refer them to community-based services and/or discuss options with the DMH Team Chief.

Increase unit leadership team presence in the work area immediately following the death announcement and decrease that over the next 30 days to a tempo you find appropriate.

- Unit leadership should engage informally with personnel and communicate messages of support and information.

For ongoing support you can consult with the Installation Community Support Coordinator (CSC) to explore additional resources overtime.

- Anniversaries of suicides (1 moth, 6 months, 1 year, etc.) are periods of increased risk.
- Promote healthy behaviors and the Wingman concept during these periods.
